Mass Readings for 3rd June 2018
The Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ
Exodus 24: 3-8

As with many ancient cultures, the Israelite religion offered blood sacrifices. The connection between blood and life plays an important role in the covenant between God and Israel. The two parties to the covenant are irrevocably joined together and will share in each other's life. 'I will be your God; you will be my people' are the reassuring words of the Lord which comfort the people of Israel on their journey through the wilderness and beyond.

Hebrews 9:11-15

Hebrews holds a unique place in the literature of the New Testament. It presents interpretations of Jesus and of the entire Christian movement that are decidedly different from those found in other writings. The letter's author sees Jesus as the great high priest of the Christian religion performing services analogous to the ones carried out by the Levitical priests of the Old Testament. In this passage, Christ is both officiating priest and sacrificial victim.

Mark 14: 12-16,22-26

In Mark's account of the Last Supper, the link to the Passover is made explicit in his instructions to the disciples as to how to prepare the last meal they would celebrate before his Passion. Jesus adds a new significance to the traditions of the Passover, which recall the Exodus of the people of Israel from slavery in Egypt. Recalling the earlier passages in Mark where he fed 5,000 and 4,000 people Jesus took the bread, blessed it, broke it and gave it to the disciples. In taking the cup, Jesus anticipates his own death, and proclaims its redemptive significance.
