Calling people who care about our poorer brothers and sisters

We're hoping to create a small group of supporters who can help raise awareness of the vital work that CAFOD, our own Catholic charity, undertakes with vulnerable people across the world. If you would be interested in meeting, no more than once a month, and helping to plan parish activities we would be delighted to hear from you. Please get in touch with Audra Turner at audds37@gmail.com

Whatever you do for the least of my children you do for me.

We welcome stories, comments, letters, reflective accounts, prayers or photos. These can be sent via the church office for the attention of the editor or alternatively at zilightfoot@gmail.com

The deadline for the summer edition is 30th June.

Mass Readings for 10th June 2018 Tenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Genesis 3:9-15

In Genesis 3, God pronounced judgment on the first humans and on their tempter. They wanted to experience evil and be like God. They received what they desired. A life of misery and death itself. In their selfishness, they could not see goodness through the eyes of the divine.

2 Corinthians 4:13-5:1;

St Paul challenged his audience to look beyond the temporal to the eternal. He urged them to see their place in God's Kingdom.

Mark 3:20-35

Jesus exceeded social expectations. And that was the problem. No longer a mere carpenter, he dared to stand out as the travelling teacher and healer. His critics could not explain his power so they charged him with sorcery. But did that make any sense? Why would evil allow good to result? And because of his popularity, he was an embarrassment to his family. However, who was his family? Jesus scandalized people through his charismatic personality, his popularity and his power. He rose above the expectations of other, even his own family. Could this be God at work?
